This year our symposium coincides with two very significant celebrations. The year 2010 is both the birth of our study group and the 100th anniversary of the foundation of the IPA. This is why we chose “Dreams, Fantasies and Fairy Tales in the 100th anniversary of the IPA” as the theme of the symposium.

Freud started his own journey in 1900, with his “Interpretations of Dreams”. In 1931, he wrote “This work includes everything I have yet to say”. Wishes are the driving forces of an analytical journeys. We have witnessed their emergence sometimes disguised in dreams, other times in fantasies or in fairy tales.

In this symposium, we will discuss Dreams, Fantasies and Fairy Tales with respect to their significant qualities in the psyche, as intermediaries to the fulfilment of wishes.
